COUNCILMEN TO RECEIVE SALARIES

Hans A Nissen	560
Phil A. Lee	538
Curtis Bowman	470
Charles Zimmerman	422
W. F Huber	392

El Cerrito

The municipal election turned up several surprises when the votes were counted last night.

Hans A. Nissen, a newcomer in the political field, headed the entire ticket of candidates with a total of 560 votes.

Celebrating the victory there was a big automobile parade up and down San Pablo avenue in which Nissen and his supporters took part.

Lee Wins

Phil A. Lee, (incumbent) was the second winner with a vote of 538.

Charles Zimmerma (incumbent) went down to defeat in the many combinations that were made against him. He stood fourth in the list with a vote of 422.

The voting was very heavy and started in early in the morning, continuing right up to the time for closing the polls. There were 1621 registered voters in the city and 1225 of them voted, being practically a seventy-five per cent poll.

Pay Council

The special proposition on the ballot of paying the members of the council $6.00 a meeting was carried by a margin of 105 votes. This was made possible by the heavy favorable vote in Precinct No 7 (Mira Vista). The total vote for the compensation was 496 and against 391.

The result of this election practically upsets the present regime, and means that possibly either Peter Larsen or Ralph Beck will go in as the new mayor.

There were several combinations in the contest. Larsen and Beck and their adherents were the supporters of Nissen.

Cleanup Seen

Lee was the sponsor of Bowman, who was defeated, and Huber and Zimmerman made independent fights.

Many rumors are afloat in the city to the effect that there will be an entire clean-out of appointive officers just as soon as the reorganization of the council takes place.

The tabulated result of the election is printed in another column of today's issue

RAMES DEATH HELD ACCIDENT

The death of Tony Rames, welder at the local Standrad Oil plant, was caused by an accidental fall from the scaffolding of an oil tank at Point Orient, according to the verdict returned by a coroner's jury last night. The jury fixed no blame for the death.

According to testimony offered at the inquest, Rames was subject to spells of dizziness, and it is believed he fell from the tank when overcome by diziness. Coroner Aubrey Wilson conducted the inquest.

Hazelton At Store Meeting

M. E. Hazelton, manager of the local J. C. Penney store, yesterday attended the annual spring convention of the Penney managers at the Hotel Sir Francis Drake, San Francisco. Representatives from 74 stores in as many cities on the Pacific coast were present at the conference.

A three day preparatory conference was held at the hotel last week and was attended by several officials of the company from New York.

George H. Bushnell of New York former vice president and now a director of the company was the principal speaker last night. K. G. Foster, manager of the Reno Penney store, acted as toastmaster.

MACHINE GUNS STOP RUN ON OHIO BANK

MARION, Ill. April 14.—UP—Panicky citizens of Williamson county, frightened by failure of all but five banks in the county were met today by machine guns when they started a run on the First National of Marion.

The machine guns were mounted to protect $100,000 in currency hurried from St. Louis after three other banks in the county had failed earlier in the day. In all, seven banks in the county had failed earlier in the day. In all, seven banks have closed in one week.

Sheriff Oren Coleman said the machine guns were mounted simply as a precautionary measure and that no efforts would be made to keep orderly depositors from withdrawing their savings if they so desired.

The closed banks, with aggregate deposits of more than $2,000,000, were forced to shut their doors because of a decline in value of mortgaged farm lands, large amounts of tax anticipation warrants held against county funds and lack of coal mining activity, officials said.

Bells Fail To Respect Vacation

While it may have been the first day of Easter vacation to students at Linco'n school, it was only Monday to the school bells.

The bells at the seat of learning rang out at the end of each hour, as has been their custom. The janitor, or whoever it is that usually turns off the bells during vacation, overlooked the matter yesterday morning.

The oversight was quickly remedied, and the bells were adjusted so they will not resume their duties again until classes take up again next Monday.

ATHERN IN JULIAN OIL PROBE

LOS ANGELES, April 14.—UP—Issuance of a subpoena for Fred G. Athern, of the state investments department was the only documentary result today in the investigation of the failure of the hundred million dollar Julian Petroluem corporation.

The day was occupied with two major attractions, however.

First, the exchange of notes between Gov. C. C. Young and District Attorney Buron Fitts, opponents in the next election, and second, the public's spanking administered the grand jury by Judge Walton Wood, persiding over the criminal courts.

The governor called upon the district attorney to indict the real wreckers of the Julian corporation and revealed an investigation made by Athern which caused the latter to be called before the grand jury.

ALAMEDA April 14. —(UP)— The mother of three children who narrowly escaped death when their home burned here today, was sought by the authorities tonight.

A note signed "mama" and addressed to John, 16, who was also missing, was found by the police who said it read: "I cannot live this way any longer." They believed it was written by the mother, Mrs. Minnie Washburn.

Three smaller children had been confined to the house by a scarlet fever quarantine They were Helen 6, Everett 4, and Virginia, 3.

It was presumed they had been playing with matches and the bed caught fire. They were rescued by two nurses.

PLANS FOR SEWER SYSTEM ORDERED

REPORTS TO BE GIVEN TO MEET

LONDON April 14.—(UP) —The five-power naval conference formally entered the home stretch today. Its three months of bargaining will end next week with the signing of a treaty now being drafted.

At a plenary session held in St. James' palace this noon, Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald said he hoped the treaty could be signed on Tuesday, April 22. This would permit the Americans to sail for home on the Leviathan the following day.

There were reliable reports however, that the drafting committee did not expect to complete its work unutil April 25th.

Session Held

Meanwhile the delegations became restive. Foreign Minister Aristide Briand and Marine Minister Jacques Louis Bumesnal left for Paris this afternoon, expecting to return for the treaty signature.

Foreign Minister Bino Grandi and Marine Minister Guiseppe Sirianni, of Italy, planned to leave for Rome tomorrow, accompanied by others of their delegation.

Today's plenary session, the first meeting of all the separate delegations since February 11, lasted only 22 minutes. During that time the delegates adopted five reports submitted by the committee of the whole, which will be published tomorrow.

Japan Wins.

There were only two principal developments as MacDonald railroaded the reports to a vote. One was the announcement by himself and secretary of state Stimson, that Great Britain and the United States had granted Japan's last-minute request for the right to transfer 10 per cent of allotted destroyer tonnage to the light cruiser division, or vice versa. Japan had asked for a 15 per cent privilege.

The second development was MacDonald's announcement that a number of the reports were subject to Italy's reservation. This was understood to mean that Italy reserves the right to refer questions of limitation method to the League of Nations

MacDonald explained that the reports adopted today are the material out of which the treaty is to be moulded. They deal with the following subjects:

Program Told.

A battleship holiday.
Humanization of submarines.
Replacement not provided for in the Washington treaty of 1922.
Special ships.
Over-age vessels.

"Negotiations will continue between our friends on our right and our friends on our left," Macdonald said, indicating with nods of his head the French and Italian delegates seated at the big horseshoe table. This meant that Franco-Italian limitation negotiations would continue after the conference is terminated.

KEY BUSSES SCORED AT COUNCIL MEET

The busses of the Key Transit System, are an eyesore to some of the property owners on Tenth street, the assertion being made that they are a detriment to that section, and prevent business property from being rented.

As a result the city manager has been instructed to make arrangements to have the busses removed to some other location.

The matter was brought to the attention of the council last evening by George F. Black, S. P. Skow and George F. Dornan, representing the Odd Fellows Hall Association.

Black, in placing the matter before the council, stated that the busses were objectionable in that they occupied practically the entire frontage of the Odd Fellows, and prevented the property from being rented to desirable tenants, which would bring in a revenue to its owners. Black also maintained that the Key System should not be permitted to monopolize the street for doing business, that it should be compelled to establish a depot of its own for the accommodation of its passengers.

The matter was then disposed of by Councilman A. B. Hinkley, making a motion, which was adopted that the city manager find another location for the Key busses.

CENSUS TO END TODAY

Edward Dinkelspiel, census supervisor for this district, announced yesterday that the census enumeration for Richmond is expected to be completed tonight.

Approximately 17,000 names have been turned in, Dinkelspiel declared, and about one-fourth of the districts in the city have been completed, with the others nearing completion.. He said it might be necessary to clean up a few districts after today.

Although Dinkelspiel said he could not estimate the total count in Richmond, it was indicated yesterday that the total would not run much in excess of 20,000.

In making his announcement yesterday, Dinkelspiel expressed surprise at the attittude shown by several local teachers who reside in hotels. In a few instances, Dinkelspiel said, the teachers have preferred to be counted with the population of the cities in which they resided, and in which their parents reside

Inasmuch as the law specifies that the enumeration should be made in the place where the person is employed, and where he or she is maintaining a residence, Dinkelspiel said he would probably take the matter up with the school authorities.

Dinkelspiel said that the main difficulties had been encountered in enumerating those who reside in hotels, but an effort is being made to list all those who are permanent residents of Richmond.

In making his statements, Dinkelspiel urged that all those who have not been enumerated, call the office of the city clerk at Richmond 383, and give their names, and tell where they may be found by the census enumerators.

Maniac Attacks Modesto Family

MODESTO, April 14.—(UP)— A father protected his family from the attack of a maniac today after a long battle. J. E. Brown, a rancher, had gone to help a neighbor, Richard J King, who was lying in a ditch.. City Auditor Presents Report

The report of the city auditor filed with the city council lasts night, showed a balance on hand in the city treasury of $166,493.02

DIVISION 4 TO START SOON

Just as soon as the proceedings can be started and a contract awarded, the combination storm and sanitary sewer, that will take care of the industrial section of the city, will be constructed.

At the meeting of the city council last night, City Engineer E. A. Hoffman was instructed to prepare plans and specifications for the work.

This is what is known as Division 4 of the general plan, and is a complete unit. It provides for the extension of the Tenth street sewer, the extension of the Fourteenth street sewer, and the building of a new sewer on Dock street and Hall avenue, which is to tie into the Tenth street line.

This will provide for the drainage of tracts on the inner harbor district, east of the channel.

To provide temporary sewer facilities for the Filice and Perelli cannery that is fast nearing completion and which will be ready for operation the latter part of May, a contract was let to J. T. Clinch for $1120.80. Other bidders on the work were Fred Meyers, $1,882.60, and Sam C. Rogers, $1,379.00.

PANTAGES IN NEW APPEAL

LOS ANGELES, April 14.—(UP) —A third attempt to gain freedom on bail pending his appeal from conviction of attacking Eunice Pringle, 17-year old dancer, was started on behalf of Alexander Pantages today.

Medical and legal affidavits accompanied the petition for his release. Two doctors said that the multimillionaire theatre man's heart was in a critical condition from county jail confinement. An attorney held that Pantages' aid in preparing a defense against a $1,000,000 suit filed by Miss Pringle was necessary Superior Judge Charles Fricke, who has denied two previous requests for liberty, set the hearing for next Wednesday.

Man Fined On Game Charge

A revolver shot fired into the air by A. G. Curry, fish and game commissioner, ended an attempted escape of two suspected illegal fishermen off Point Potrero.

One of the men, Clay Cox, pleaded guilty to the charge in Justice court here yesterday and was fined $100 by Judge A. A. Alstrom. The other, Oliver Marks, pleaded not guilty, and the charge was dismissed.

When discovered by Commissioner Curry, the men were said to be fishing for bass with nets. Several fish, none over three inches long, were found in their possession, Curry declared.

At the sight of Curry, they attempted to flee, but a shot fired over their heads caused them to stop and surrender.

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

Don't Be Afraid to Tell Your Age—To the Census Man!

THAT far-famed Southern chivalry has triumphed again!

The census man, down in Ol' Virginia, will not "press" the age item in the cases of maids, wives or widows.

According to a despatch from Danville, Va.,

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

G. Howard Guerrant, district supervisor, says that his enumerators
Have been instructed to take every woman's word for it
Unless the given age is obviously too low.
Then, while the ever-courteous enumerator may make his own estimate,
He apparently won't argue with the fair prevaricator,
Or even let her know that he guesses her
One day over the Sweet Sixteen which she may be admitting.
"We are going to let woman's conscience be her guide," explains the gallant Guerrant.
As a woman, all we can say is
That, if Mr. Guerrant ever fails to win any office
Which the votes of his feminine fellow-citizens can give him—

Women simply have no sense of gratitude!

Joking aside, are women nowadays afraid or unwilling to tell their age—
As women certainly used to be—
And, if so, what is the reason or excuse?
It seems to us that there are at least two good reasons
Why many a woman may be justified
In her attempt to conceal her birthdays.
The first and traditional reason, of course, is simply the silly old male scorn
For women past the first freshness of youth.
She who is still hungry for romance knows perfectly well
That many a man cannot think of the word
In connection with any female under twenty-five—
Or maybe twenty—or maybe even younger—
We still recall the contemptuous inflection
With which we once heard a stout and silver-haired male refer to "an old hag of eighteen"!
It seems to us absurd that men should cherish this fetish
Of extreme youth as more important than any other charm
Which women may contribute to love—
But, as long as many men do think so,
Women will strive to please
By affecting the virtue of youth when they have it not—
Especially nowadays, when beauty parlors help women to look young so much longer!
Since they can bluff the mirror,
Why hesitate at bluffing the calendar?
But there is a second reason, a new one, why many a woman
Feels that she must fib about her age—
So often she cannot get, or even keep a job
If she admits her years!
More ridiculous, if possible, than the notion
That only the very young are heroines of romance
Is the other notion—also man-made—
That only the very young are efficient workers.
Yet the woman who knows, on good evidence, that employers won't hire
Those who are thirty-five—or even thirty—or even younger—
Such a woman can hardly be blamed for refusing to admit
That she is beyond the economic dangerous age!
It so happens that we personally never hesitate to tell how old we are—
A fat lot of good it would do us, if we did fib,
Since all that any truth-seeker has to do is to look us up in Who's Who.
Still, we can understand why other women hedge on the subject—
And we know that plenty of MEN don't like to tell their age
For economic, if not for romantic reasons!
Yet, though New York and New Jersey census enumerators may not follow the polite precedent set by those in Virginia,
We really think no woman—or man—should be afraid to tell his or her age to the census man—
Because HE WON'T TELL!

SYMPHONIC JAZZ

Pan lies asleep in some dim sylvan spot
And dreams of kisses and of maidens shy;
The little hillocks undulate and dance
While tall trees sadly rustle lullaby.

Far from this place where giant houses stand
And throw their shadows on gray squares of stone,
Where myriad feet in pale procession wend—
A dying god of music makes his home.

Here, countless candles burn in frosted glass,
Blot out the stars and make the moon's face long,
New gods command their puppet-hosts to dance
In broken whirls like shattered bits of song.

The puppets are white wraiths with long, lean legs,
And painted cheeks, and eyes too bright for day;
Strange soulless things they seem, blown by the breath
Of muted horns and screaming strings at play.

See how they spin, like merry tops gone mad.
Now see them stop quite suddenly and moan,
Then slowly move, like shadows of themselves,
While blue notes curl around their pallid throne.

Sad blues, mad blues . . . hear their weird cry,
Puppets that dance but never know why,
Cold moon frowning up in the sky:
So new gods spring to life while old gods die.

JENNIFER GOODMAN.

Forty-three per cent. of the women in Germany are gainfully employed, according to a Berlin despatch. No fewer than 15,060 German women are now attending the German universities and institutes of higher learning, as compared to a mere 3,000 before the war. The former Kaiser's doctrine of "Kirche, Kuche, Kinder" as the whole duty of woman seems by way of being forgotten as successfully as his other grand ideas.

QUALITY, NOT QUANTITY, COUNTS

Don't boast of a big brain; only a third of it is used, says Dr. Walter E. Dandy, noted surgeon at Johns Hopkins University. Another blow to the sex egotist who is always pointing with pride to the fact that the average male brain weighs more than that of the average female.

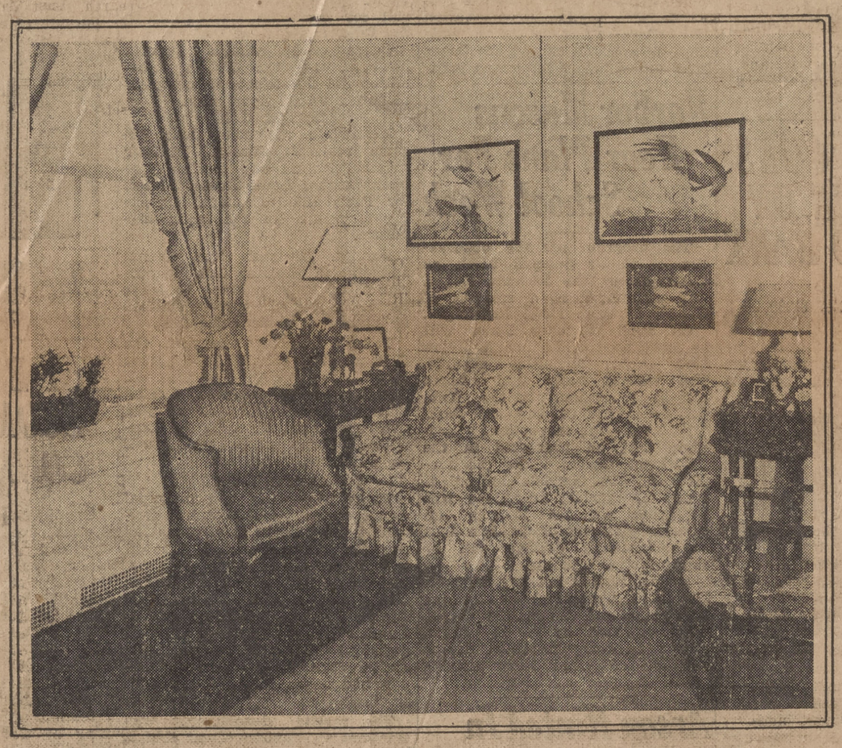
How to Select and Hang Pictures and Mirrors

By Alma Zaiss



IN THIS ROOM (REPRODUCED FROM THE WORLD BOOKLET, "GOOD FURNITURE—OLD AND NEW," THE ARRANGEMENT OF PICTURES ABOVE A SOFA IS EXTREMELY WELL DONE.

Dear Miss Zaiss:

I would like to ask for help on a simple matter that I know I should be able to decide for myself, but am not.

Last June I was married and went at once to housekeeping. By the time we bought the big pieces of furniture and rugs and curtains we had used just about all the money set aside for the house, and hadn't bought a picture or mirror (except the one that came with the dresser) or any of the little ornaments that a house needs to make it look "lived in." Now we are ready to spend a little bit more. I want and need some things for the foyer and another chair for the living room but I think I am going to let them wait a little longer and get a few good pictures and bric-a-brac. Is that foolish?

Now I come to the real problem. What type pictures must I buy? Have seen several rather modern looking pictures we liked but am afraid to trust our judgment. Could we use modern pictures with our things which are not exactly modern? There is a davenport, wing chair, secretary, a pair of standing bookshelves, a gateleg table (our living room is a combination affair), four dining chairs (two have arms), a little chest or cabinet (rather square and plain), a nest of tables, standing lamp and one table lamp. I am inclosing a diagram so you can see how thigs fit. The carpet is sort of purple brown, the sofa green, wing chair figured, rust and green—not at all bad. I have no overcurtains yet. Walls are cream. Now what do you think would be best for such a room and where should I use pictures and where mirrors? I would like one good big picture over the sofa but haven't more than $100 to spend, so will you please remember this in making any recommendations.

(MRS.) A. O'C.

Good Pictures as Important as Good Furniture

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

WITH as nice a start in furniture as Mrs. O'C. has, we would say—by all means it is time to give thought to the purely decorative elements of the home. For to live in rooms that are bare of artistic treasures is like dining forever upon subsantials. Even the most practical palate needs a bit of dessert now and then—if only to remind it that life is abundant and joyous—having its romantic as well as its serious side.

A new chair would doubtless improve Mrs. O'C.'s room. But at this time, in our opinion, it would not contribute half so much to the ensemble as would one or two lovely colorful pictures, for the plain cream walls must seem very barren with no interesting treatment to break their monotony.

The scaled diagram shows our ideas for an arrangement of present pieces, and suggests in dotted lines a few items which can be added later on. It also outlines strategic points at which pictures would prove most effective.

In selecting the pictures, one point that Mrs. O'C. (and all who have a similar problem) should remember is this: If she really likes a certain subject, she should not fear to trust her own judgment. In the home—if nowhere else— one is entitled to indulge one's own taste—and pictures are so much a matter of individual preference that it would be almost impertinent for the outsider to make definite recommendations of this subject or that.

The great thing is to buy good pictures, just as you buy good rugs, good furniture, good silver and linen for the table. Bear in mind the spirit of the room and its type of furniture; the size of the wall spaces on which pictures are to be placed; the shape of the panels, if any; the color of the wall background and prominent colors elsewhere in the room. It is best, of course, to select pictures which enhance these points —but it is not necessary to follow them slavishly, for a really fine picture fits into almost any room and is its own justification for being there.

Modern pictures may in many cases be used with furnishings of other periods. They introduce a refreshing note of piquancy and interest. Don't we like to have a lovely young girl dash into the room where a few of us who are more serious-minded sit about at tea! Of course. And so it is with the challenge of a modern picture with its high color and vivid outlines. To be sure, it all depends on the picture itself and also upon the other furnishings. But we shouldn't be afraid of the mixture, if we like the particular combination.

In Mrs. O'C.'s room, a large interesting picture over the sofa would add much color and liveliness to the scheme. It might be a marine picture, with its peaceful expanse of blue-green water and cloud-swept sky in light colors, in beautiful harmony with the soft hues of upholstery and draperies. Or it might be a landscape, leading the eye and the thought off into the distance; or a large and handsome flower picture, if the room needs a splash of color to give emphasis to the other furnishings.

The room illustrated shows a good arrangement of several pictures above a sofa; it is a plan which works out splendidly where two panels meet at the centre of the sofa and prevent the use of one large picture; a good effect could also be obtained by using but two medium-sized pictures related in subject and treatment. For the smaller wall spaces in Mrs. O'C.'s room, two smaller pictures, possibly excellent color-etchings, are suggested, another small picture to hang close above the cabinet—and there's a room with real interest in it! An ornamental mirror hung in some spot where it will reflect a colorful bit of hanging or group would make another lively picture.

On the question of hanging it may be remembered that pictures should always occupy a wall space large enough (but not too vastly large) for them. They should be hung flat against the wall, and low, so they can be adequately seen and enjoyed; about eye level seems the most pleasing height. Also, in general, it is good to hang pictures near pieces of furniture that are against or near the wall, so as to suggest a grouping of furniture and pictures. This gives a feeling of friendliness and charm to the room.

In conclusion, it seems to us that the $100 Mrs. O'C. has set aside for the immediate improvement of her home could not be spent to better advantage than on pictures. For, aside from their purely decorative effect, the more she sees and thinks about good pictures the more her appreciation of their beauty will increase, the more her judgment of pictures in general will develop—and her joy in them abound.

Cleaning Paint Brushes

WHEN doing the painting around the house use only the best brushes. During the renovating season, when the brushes are in use every few days, just hang them in a can of turpentine or kerosene with the bristles extending in the oil, but do not let them touch the bottom. To avoid this, drill a hole through the handle of the brush and insert a wire hook to suspend the brush from the side of the can.

When the painting is all done, wash them with kerosene, rinse in gasoline and shake out. Then wash well with soap and water, rinse thoroughly and hang with bristles down to dry.

Tired-Feelin' Time

FLOWERS unfolding, birdies vocalizing, perfume in the air, dancing sun and gossamery clouds. And from eyes to toes the tired feeling? That's spring!

Once we heard a wise old medical man say to the worrisome mother of a boy who seemed never to get enough rest, "Let the sleepy sleep. Let that son of yours sleep himself out."

FRANCES OLIVIER

And we know a singularly beautiful girl who every now and then deliberately sleeps the clock around. She doesn't believe in fighting the tired feeling with Puritan will as most of us do. She regards the feeling as a warning signal—to be heeded. This practice of hers may have something to do with the fresh, baby quality of her beauty. The bloom on her skin, the blue-white sparkle in her eyes. Her tonic buoyancy of spirit.

It's rather difficult to scintillate when the tired feeling is upon you. Those stored-up winter poisons—the results of indoor living and the remnants of colds—the let-down after battling icy winds, these things dull the edge of wit and weigh heavily upon one's every movement. It's next to impossible to scintillate when the tired feeling has us!

Very well, then, let us not attempt the impossible. Let us heed the warning signal and let down a bit. Let's get our fill of sleep, eat all the nice, peppy vegetables and fruits on the menu, drink that most perfect of foods, milk, go light on tea and coffee for a while. Let's really laze!

And lo, in a few short weeks we shall see wonders working in us. We shall feel ourselves storing up new strength. Our eyes shall be brighter and our skins clearer and our steps lighter, springier.

What a downright pity it is that when the world is at its gayest, we who own the world should not be a match for it in gayety! Civilization, to be sure. But then there are ways and means of getting round even that, at least round its less delightful effects. As we have just suggested, sleeping off the ill-effects is one way. Going easy on some of civilization's pet foods is another way. But perhaps the finest way of all is to go out into the heart of Nature now and gather your strength and your gayety straight from the source.

And while you are about it, we should like to recommend that you indulge in the

"DAD, are electric light wires hollow?"

"Hollow! Of course they aren't hollow."

"How can they carry the juice if they're not hollow?"

"Juice! Oh, electricians only call it that. Electricity isn't a juice, it's a current."

"Is electricity good to eat?"

"Of course not."

"Currants are."

"Oh, go to bed."

Housecleaning Suggestions

If you have put down a new linoleum, protect those places where there is hard wear, as at the sink, stove, cabinet or table, by placing a rubber mat or a matching linoleum rug at these points.

A quick way to remove dust from wallpaper is to rub it with a flannel cloth dipped in oatmeal.

A DISH A DAY

By Karen Hollis

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

In these days of uncertain weather, a housewife hardly knows when she goes to market whether to plan a dinner suitable for a raw, wintery night or a mild, spring evening. Luckily, there are some provisions which permit of a hasty, last-minute change of plan, adjustable to the demands of the weather.

Baked halibut is one of these. If the night is cold, it is most appetizing served with a rich cream sauce to which chopped shrimp has been added. If the night is spring-like it is more tempting if garnished in the Spanish manner with green peppers, tomatoes and mushrooms.

KAREN HOLLIS

If you rely on canned shrimp for the sauce it can be left on its shelf until wanted, but if fresh shrimp has been purchased it should be used in the salad, or served, at the latest, for luncheon the following day.

Baked halibut is seasonable and appealing, not only because of the number of ways in which it can be cooked but also because it is one of the best values in the market to-day. It is healthful and nourishing, and can be so prepared that it is a delight to the eye as well as the palate.

For a mild spring evening this is a tempting way to prepare

BAKED HALIBUT

2 pounds halibut, rolled in cornmeal
1 green pepper
2 tomatoes (or one small can)
1 cup of mushrooms (fresh or canned)
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons butter or oil
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of paprika

If fresh mushrooms are used they should be boiled about five minutes in a small amount of water. Place the halibut in a shallow baking dish, spread it with butter or oil, season it with Worcestershire sauce, salt and paprika and add chopped tomatoes, green peppers and mushrooms. Bake about thirty-five minutes or until fish is firm and tender, in a moderate oven (350 degrees).

For a cold evening, a dish that is more rich in nourishment is preferable. Since halibut is a fish of delicate flavor, it combines well with many other foods. From the islands of the south, particularly Cuba, comes the fashion of combining fish with fish, and it is hard to find a more tempting combination than

HALIBUT WITH SHRIMP SAUCE

1 halibut steak
½ cup cornmeal
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
Sliced lemon
Chopped parsley
2 tablespoons butter or oil

Season the halibut, dip it in cornmeal and fry it in butter or oil over a hot fire until well browned. Oil is preferable for frying fish, as it is less likely to stick to the pan.

While the fish is cooking, prepare the following sauce:

SHRIMP SAUCE

1 cup (or 1 small can) shrimp, minced
2 tablespoons butter
1½ tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of white pepper and paprika
Sliced lemon

Melt the butter and blend the flour with it over a low fire. Add the milk slowly, stirring constantly so as to assure smoothness. Add the seasoning and chopped shrimp and let boil for a minute or two.

Place the fish on a heated platter and pour the sauce around, not over, it. Garnish with slices of lemon.

MISS TALMADGE IN FIRST TALKIE

"New York Nights" the fastpaced drama of Broadway back-stage, life which will enliven the screen at the Fox-California theater today presents Norma Talmadge, star of some of the screen's foremost successes, in her first talking picture. Sponsored by Joseph M. Schenck and released by United Artists, the picture is based on the famous Broadway stage success, "Tin Pan Alley," written by Hugh Stanislaus Stange.

Enthusiastically heralded by the country's leading critics as one of the best examples of the new celluloid art, "New York Nights" unfolds a tale of the show people who help to characterize city life. The pivotal character is a young chorus girl, Jill who is the sole support of Fred, her lovable but quiet irresponsible song-writing husband. Fred parries her threat to leave him by interesting Jill in his latest number. The song gives Prividi, a racketeer producer, an opportunity to win his way into Jill's favor. The girl repels him however, but later, upon discovering Fred involved in a scandal with another girl, leaves her husband and encourages the racketeer's attentions.

Endless wild parties follow till one night the racketeer shoots a drunken gambler who has been over-attentive to Jill. At the courthouse Jill meets Fred, her husband now but the wreck of his former self. She pities him, puts up his bail and plans to begin life with him anew.

Upon his release, the racketeer learns of what has happened. The action from this point on, builds up to a terrific climax replete with surprises and strong situations.

Norma Talmadge as the hapless little chorus girl has one of the most colorful roles of her career. Her speaking voice, from all accounts, is rich with feeling and tonal color and gives added strength to a characterization pulsating with reality. Miss Talmadge is surrounded by a galaxy of stage and screen favorites including Gilbert Roland, John Wray, Lilyan Tashman, Mary Doran and Roscoe Karns. Lewis Milestone was the director.

Also on the program is Taylor Holmes in "He Loved the Ladies."

GENERAL URGES LARGER AIR CORPS

SACRAMENTO, April 14.—UP—Organization of the Air Corps into a third element to stand with the Army and Navy as the fighting forces of the United States was advocated today in a statement by Brigadier General William E. Gillmore, commanding general of the first provisional wing, here for the Army Air Corps field exercises.

Declaring that the Air Corps consists of a separate entity and should be recognized as such, General Gillmore said that it is only a matter of time until this policy would be adopted by leaders of the nation.

At present the Air Corps is a part of the Army. General Gillmore said he could foresee the day when it would be independent of this connection, with its commanding personel standing on equal rank with Army and Navy officials.

"But it would be unwise to crowd this inovation," the general continued.

"We must patiently wait until the full scope of our activities are recognized by the nation as being a separate project, apart from the Army and Navy. Such maneuvers as we are holding here at Mather field are valuable to us for their experience and doubly valuable in that they result in educating the public to the extent of our work and capabilities."

High flying will be in order here tomorrow when bombardment planes will ascend to an altitude of 15,000 feet, flying in defensive formation already in the air, pursuit planes as they soar into the air, three miles above the earth.

Visit Field ..

Accompanying the bombardment group will be attack planes, to guard the heavier craft against the pursuit squadron.

These maneuvers are part of the tests being made during the exercises here to determine feasibility of battles several miles above the earth. Last Saturday a squadron of pursuit planes kept battle formation to a new world's altitude record of this type of more than 30,000 feet.

F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war in charge of aviation, wired today that business woulk keep him in Washington during the next two weeks. He had contemplated a trip to Mather field to view the exercises.

Wig-Wag At R. R. Crossing Will Be Regulated Soon

The complaint concerning the incessant ringing of the bells on the wig-wags of the Santa Fe at their crossing at Standard avenue and Richmond avenue, is to be corrected.

An investigation was made by E. F. McNaughton, assistant engineer for the railroad commission, and his report was read to the city council at its meeting last night.

At each crossing an additional wig-wag will be installed, but the time they ring will be cut down.

During the peak hours of travel from 7:20 to 8:00 in the morning, and from 4:30 to 5:15 in the afternoon, the Santa Fe railroad will see that switching crews do not do any switching, which will expedite travel a great deal, and do away with the blocking of the streets with freight cars.

Local Boy Dies In Martinez

Henry W. Tetzschner, eight year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Z. W. Ttezschner, of 554 Twenty-first street, passed away yesterday morning in Martinez. The boy had suffered a month's illness prior to his death.

PUBLIC SCHOOL WEEK STARTS MONDAY

The eleventh annual California Public Schools Week will be observed in Richmond schools from Monday to Friday by exhibits of student handicraft, school programs, and parental inspection of schools.

The doors of Richmond Union high school, Roosevelt and Longfellow Junior high schools, and the elementary schools of the city will be opened to the parents of the pupils attending these institutions.

Programs will be presented in most of the schools by the pupils. The parents will be welcomed to these presentations.

An exhibit of the art, wood, and iron work of the Richmond Union high school pupils will also be held at the high school during the week.

The observation of Public Schools Week is state-wide. The 181,000 members of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers are the main backers of the Public Schools Week movement.

This movement is regarded by Parent and Teacher association officials as a means by which parents may get in closer contact with the education of their children and the work being done by the instructors in our public schools.

According to a statement by Mrs. Robert L. Cardiff, state president of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers: "Lodges, mens' service clubs, educators, schools, chambers of commerce, parent teacher associations, and churches are all united in a co-operative effort to inform themselves and the general public as to school achievements, and what they mean to citizenship. Public education is the talisman for a republic. Only by intelligent and continued support of our wide flung educational system can we hope to hold our liberty and build our nation."

Don't Take Pills For Constipation

Ordinary pills taken to relieve constipation merely force a movement of the bowels without making the liver disgorge its excess bile. That's why the trouble returns in a day or two and you have to swallow more pills.

What every constipated person needs is a good liver tonic like Plantlax to thoroughly cleanse the digestive system of all foul secretions and at the same time restore the torpid, lazy liver to proper working order. When this is done you will no longer have frequent headaches, coated tongue, sallow skin, sour stomach, gas, bilious attacks or other symptoms of constipation and liver trouble.

Plantlax is made from the juices of harmless medicinal plants — Nature's own remedies—that act in a mild, easy way without weakening or irritating the organs. Try it tonight. Large bottle $1 at any good drug store.

Executive Of Boy Scouts Confers On Legion's Program

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 14.—UP—A year of unusually close cooperation between the American Legion and the Boy Scouts of America has been arranged in a conference at National headquarters with Ray O. Wyland, of New York, director of institutional relation and acting director of education for the Boy Scouts of America.

A request that each of the 10,000 posts of the Legion organize and sponsor a troop of Scouts, making of it the best in the community, was made recently by National Commander O. L. Bodenhamer. Building better citizenhsip through aiding the Scouts was one of five activities requested of the posts by the national commander, as a minimum spring community program.

"Scouting is a big factor in building health, character and citizenship," said Wyland. "The Legion, together with many large industries, also finds that Scouts give important aid to their safety programs."

It was determined that the Legion can be of best assistance to Scouting through vocational guidance, camping, troop organization, troop or council leadership and financial aid. Definite suggestions as to how Legion posts may further aid Scouts have been incorporated in a booklet by the National Council of Scouts in response to a request by the National Americanism Commission of the Legion. This booklet will be distributed free to all interested in helping the Scouts.

NEGRO LASTS 6 ROUNDS WITH CARNERA

OAKLAND, April 14.—UP—Another knockout was scored here tonight by Primo Carnera, Italy's heavy heavyweight. His victim was Leon "Bombo" Chevalier, huge negro, who succumbed to the bombardment of Carnera's right fist in the sixth round.

Weather conditions were extremely unfavorable for an outdoor fight. It was estimated that 15,000 persons were present. Carnera weighed 276 and Chevalier 216 pounds.

The end came after two minutes and 15 seconds of the sixth round when Referee Toby Irwin believed that Chevalier was out on his feet and could not continue without taking too much punishment.

There were a few shouts of dissention but most fans took the decision cheerfu'ly, declaring that they had seen more than they thought they would.

After the fight, it developed that one of Chevalier's seconds, Bob Perry, of Los Angeles, threw in a towel. He was not the one permitted by state rules, it was said, to do so, but Irwin could not be located to make a statment.

Chevalier was a much more formidable opponent than Carnera or the most optomistic fan in the grandstand had expected him to be.

In fact, until the middle of the sixth round, Chevalier landed the cleaner punches.

After being pushed over during a skirmish with Chevalier in the first round, Carnera jumped up instantly and defended himself for most of the next five rounds before driving Bombo into submission with right and left jabs shortly before the end of the sixth round.

Chevalier was only knocked down once, taking a nine count about 30 seconds before Irwin stepped in to stop the bout and raise Carnera's hand.

The main event was moved ahead of schedule when rain started during the second preliminary. Twice, once in the first and again in the sixth round, the towering Italian slipped on the canvas but did not go down and he could easily have claimed that the rain was responsible for his first tumble.

PURSES ORDERED .. HELD UP

OAKLAND, April 14.—UP—The State Athletic Commission ordered that the purses of Primo Carnera and Leon Chevalier should be held up until an investigation had been made of circumstances surrounding the technical knockout by Carnera in the sixth round.

The fight ended in great confusion when Referee Toby Irwin stepped in and unexpectedly raised Carnera's hand.

Bob Terry, a minor second for Chevalier had thrown a towel into the ring although the negro appeared to have some strength left.

The order that the purses be held up was given by John Cluitt, secretary, and State Athletic Commissioner Charles Traung. There was little doubt but what Carnera won on technicalities.

Two Killed In Vendetta

BRADY, Texas., April 14.—(UP)—Two men, one of whom was charged with the slaying of the other's brother shot it out with pistols on the main street here shortly before noon today and when the smoke from a dozen shots cleared away, both were dead.

Laughlin was charged with the killing of John Wright, brother of his combatant today, a month ago. He was at liberty under $7,500 bond waiting action of the grand jury.

CHICAGO, April 14.—(UP)—Death beat a Texas mother in her air race here from Dallas, Texas, today in a vain attempt to see her son before he died.

Young Sundell was an official of the Illinois Edison company. His grief-stricken mother will attend the funeral tomorrow.

FORESTS RAZED IN MINNESOTA

ST PAUL, Minn., April 14.—(UP)—The smoky red glow of forest fires hovered tonight over more than 5,000 acres in the wild tumultuous country of northern Minnesota.

The prolonged dry weather, said state forester Grover Conseet, coupled with the fact that the ranger force has not yet been augmented for summer duty, provided elements of danger.

About 4,000 acres of meadow and brush land was burned over in Crow Wing, Cass and Morrison counties. The other fires consume second growth timber northeast of Anoke in the state game refuge in Itaska State Park and in the Pillsbury State Farest.

Richmond Soccer Team Plays Tie With Shell Oil

A one to one tie was fought between the Richmond Soccer club athletes and the Shell Oil eleven of Martinez Sunday morning on the Martinez high school lot.

The backs of both squads were right on the job Sunday, with the result that the forwards of Richmond and Martinez were unable to do much damage in the goalers' territory. The scoring for the local team was made by Joe Baker.

Doug Brain, one of Richmond's most valuable players, received an injury to his back in Sunday's contest. There is a possibility that he will be unable to see service with the Richmond outfit during the remainder of the season.

Other contests with eastbay soccer teams are in the offing, and the local athletes are expecting hard post-season competition.

Motor Car Co. War Reaches Peak

ST. LAUIS, April 14.—UP—Battle between two interests seeking control of the Moon Motor car company, one of the pioneers in the auto industry reached a high point today when employes faithful to recently ousted officials repulsed with pistol a set of new company officers.

The new officials, including W. J. Muller, president; Helm Walker vice president; Joseph E. Roberts second vice president, and Frederick E. Walsh, treasurer, later obtained court injunctions restraining the employes from interfering with them.

The plaintiffs charged in their petition that a few days after they had obtained a majority control of the Moon stock, the former officers had conspired to wreck the company.

BOSTON WINS OPENING GAME

WASHINGTON, April 14.—UP—The Boston Red Sox may finish last in the American league this year, but they're ruling the roost tonight, having opened the 1930 season with a hard-fought 4 to 3 win over Walter Johnson's Senators.

With President Hoover and numerous other dignitaries looking on, Heinie Wagner's team came from behind in the eighth inning today, scoring twice off Garland Braxton to win out after the game appeared lost. Twenty-five thousand fans took advantage of perfect weather to witness the opener.

Most of the credit for the victory should go to old Phil Todt, veteran first baseman, who hadn't even been slated to play. Todt, who had been battling for his job against Bill Sweeney, a promising rookie, banged out three timely hits, scoring one run and driving in two more.

Tom O'Iver, rookie centerfielder, was close behind Todt with two singles, both of which were turned into runs.

Smith Wins ..

George Smith, a righthander who once toiled for the Tigers, was the winning pitcher. Smith replaced Danny MacFayden after the latter spectled starting pitcher retired for a pinch-hitter in the seventh inning. Smith retired eight Senators in order, but had to bear down hard after West doubled with two out and Rice walked.

With Goose Goslin, slugging outfielder, at bat and the winning run on first, many Capitol fans scented victory. The Goose crashed three hard drives, all of them foul, and then ended the game with a long drive to O'iver.

Fred Marberry, who started for the Senators, pitched great ball until the seventh, when he wilted and was replaced by Braxton with the bases filled, one out and the Senators leading by one run. Braxton retired the side scoreless but was pounded for the two runs in the next inning.

First Ball

The season got under way auspiciously despite the setback of the home team. President Hoover enjoyed the game so much that, despite a heavy cold, he remained until the eighth inning. The president was seated between Secretary of Treasurer Me'lon and Mrs. Mitchell, wife of the attorney general.

The president gave the signal for opening play by hurling a fine one straight at Umpire McGowan and another season was on its way.

The line score:

Boston	..	..	0	0	0	1	0	0	1	2x—4
Washington	..		1	0	0	0	0	2	0	0—3

Batteries—MacFayden, G. Smith and Heving; Marberry, Braxton and Ruel.

Rain Delays Net Matche

The Richmond and Mosswood tennis clubs did not meet in the inter-club competition Sunday as schedu'ed because of inclement weather.

However, the inter-club standing was changed in favor of Oakland Sunday as a result of Oakland's victory over the Sutter club of Sacramento.

The Oakland squad is now looking as the strongest contender in central California inter-club tennis honors. In an earlier contest it took five out of nine matches from Richmond.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

ISLE OF ESCAPE

Copyright 1930, Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.

Based on the Warner Bros. motion picture and the novel by Jack McLaren of the same title.

SYNOPSIS

David Wade and Stella Blackney flee from New Guinea to the South Sea island of Motogaru to escape O'Shane, who had robbed Wade and who is secretly the husband of Stella and only awaits her ailing mother's death to claim his marital rights. On the island they meet Moira, a half-caste girl, who is attracted by Wade. Stella fears the girl will try to win Wade away from her if she learns that Stella and Wade are not married. Moira's father, taken suddenly ill, asks them to look after his daughter.

CHAPTER IX—Continued

It was a great love that inspired a fear of death such as his, and she reacted to it. It stirred her love-depths. She loved him for loving so. As she loved David, so did he love his daughter.

"I will do as you ask," she whispered.

Upon his face showed the light of a great pleasure.

"You—promise?"

His voice was very weak now.

"I promise."

"Ah! I—knew you—would."

With unexpected strength he pressed her hands again. Then he slowly relaxed them and beckoned his daughter with his eyes. Stella made a way for her and went up the stair on to the deck.

"Stella!" came David's voice. She started. She had forgotten him, forgotten everything—the passing of time, herself, all save that scene in the cabin. He laid a hand on hers as it rested on the rail.

"She is well able to look after herself."

"It is all over."

The sound of his voice rather than what he said stilled some of her emotional quivering.

"And Moira?" she asked.

"Listen!" From the cabin came sound of a quiet sobbing. "She is taking it better than I thought she would. I thought it best to leave her alone with him—for the time, at least."

He drew her to him. The crew boys had heard the sobbing and understood its significance. One began to beat a drum, slowly and regularly, and the sound of it crept out over the dark water like a thing with padded feet. Another voiced a chant, high-pitched and tremulous. The vague group became a number of vague individuals, each swaying his body to the rhythm of the drum and thudding his feet on the deck. From the villagers on the shore came an answering wailing. The night was a thing of sorrowing sounds.

"I am glad you promised to do as he asked," said David.

"Glad—why?"

"Because—oh, hang it! I've never been so affected by anything in my life. There was nothing to do but promise. The whole thing tore at my heartstrings."

"That is just the way I felt, David."

He looked at her fixedly. "But for a moment I—I——"

"Yes?"

"I was afraid you would refuse. As a mattter of fact, I was horribly afraid——"

He stopped abruptly. Moira had come up the stair, come running and waving her arms, her hair streaming forward on her face, and the yellow light of the lamp showed flecks of blood on her face, as though she had scratched her cheeks with her nails, and there was a wild gleaming in her eyes.

"Dad! Dad! I am coming to you!" She cried, and there was harsh laughter in her voice.

"Wait for me, Dad! I'm coming now. Now!"

She ran for the rail. David and Stella rushed to her and seized her round the waist and by the arms.

"It is hysteria!" said David as he struggled with her. "We must see she doesn't hurt herself."

It was no easy task. The half-caste fought and displayed amazing strength and agility as she fought. She was like a wild beast. Once she broke away from them, and they caught her again only when she had reached the rail and was preparing to mount it. And all the while she laughed harshly and cried piteously to her father.

"I'm coming, Dad! Coming! Only they won't let me!"

Then suddenly she grew quiet and seemingly normal. The chanting amidships had swelled up in a vigorous chorus, and the thudding of the feet was louder. The drum-beat was like the underlying throbbing of an orchestral double-bass. The voice of one of the men rose in a key high-pitched and more wavering than ever.

Moira stood as though listening. The calmness that had come to her seemed uncanny, unreal. Presently she spoke:

"Let me go!" And such was the imperiousness of the tone that instinctively they obeyed, though still they watched her closely.

For a moment she remained perfectly still, a white statue in the blackness of the night, and ignoring the presence of the two whites as completely as though they did not exist.

Then with the movements of an automaton she went along the deck towards the mourning natives. There was nothing of her usual loose-hipped, cross-step gait. She walked as the natives walked—heels down and stiff-kneed. The two whites followed, in readiness for what might happen.

"Not stop her," whispered Looru. "I think I understand what she going to do."

The half-caste stopped, and with curious deliberation took off her dress leaving herself clothed in only a waist-to-knees undershirt. Her body was swaying now, as the bodies of the natives swayed. Into the midst of the mourners she went, making her own way through them. In the native tongue she gave an order to the drummer.

At once the drum-beat changed to a tattoo, rousing, rattling, and abandoned. The half-caste began to dance—a mad, wild dance, full of strange up-and-out-thrustings of arms and legs, and ripplings of the body, and jerkings of the head; and, all the while, she sang and sang and sang in that tremulous and high-pitched key; and the men about her danced as she danced, and sang as she sang, till the night overflowed with the sound of that wild, barbaric mourning.

Moira was no longer half-white. She was full native. The black part of her had taken possession. The primordial had swept away the civilized. She was no more a school-taught daughter of a white father. She was a savage, responding to the impulses of savagery, to the urges, desires and creeds of savagery.

"I thought it was this," said Looru. "It is the Sorrow-Dance. In the mission they said it was wrong to dance so. But I do not know. I do not know. That girl, she will be better when the dance is finished. Her sorrow will not hurt so much. I think, sinabada, more better you let her dance, and dance, and dance....."

CHAPTER X

And now there came for Stella a time of worry and anxiety and uncertainty, of heartburnings, and general emotional distress. It began with the question as to where the half-caste was to live.

"It is impossible that she stays on the schooner," said David one morning at breakfast.

"I don't think it is impossible at all," said Stella, knowing what was in his mind and fearing to hear him say it. She idled with her food, and looked thoughtfully through the ever-open doorway. The morning was wet and squally, for the time of the rains was near, and the lagoon was a scurry of white, and the beach a place of tiny streams.

"What—leave her there among all those natives!" David exclaimed in surprise. "I say! Do you think that is right, or fair? Natives have their good qualities, but they are only human, and very primitive humans at that, and the temptation—"

"She is well able to look after herself. Besides, she is one of them, isn't she?"

He put down his knife and fork and regarded her reproachfully. She wished he hadn't made that last speech; and she wasn't sure that she had wished to make it either; in a kind of a way, it had escaped her. She didn't like him regarding her in this manner.

"Now, that is unkind," he said, "and I am sure you didn't mean it." She was grateful to him for that. "See here, Stella. We have four rooms, and can easily spare one. The one on the side veranda, facing the village, would do.

"I suggest we send off to the schooner and tell her to come today if she likes," David went on. "I am sure she will be glad to get away, I know I would, in such circumstances, and I am sure you would, too. Shall we?"

She did not know what to say. She did not want the half-caste at the house.

"Moira is your ward, you know," said David, noting her hesitation. "You are bound by your promise—"

HOOVER ASKS FOR WORLD COURT

WASHINGTON, April 14.—UP—President Hoover pleaded for the World Court and urged the necessity of a method to mobilize public opinion against Kellogg pact violations tonight in a speech before the 39th Continental Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Hoover said he did not doubt the United States would become a member of the court. No other court, he said, is practical. His address analyzed the cause of peace from the standpoint of progress toward making it permanent. He said a spiritual and moral duty to take part in securing peace rested with the American people because of inherent advantages which make this country more than any other free from fear of attack.

The president explained that safeguards to peace constantly were being added through international conference, through arbitration agencies, independent inquiry and co-operation, and by the Kellogg pact. Success of the London naval conference, he continued, was assured and represented another step toward prevention of war.

Plan Told

America's duty to further world peace does not mean commitments to the use of force nor any limitation on American independence. Instead Hoover said, the duty can be performed only by maintaining the fullest American independence.

He said the question of reservations under which the United States should join the court was disputed and that he would not discuss them tonight but he emphasized that every president and secretary of state living since inception of the court has urged American adherence.

The battle over American adherence to the court is to be revived in the Senate.

Root Plan

Elihu Root participated last year in a revision of the court's statutes and devised also the so-called Root protocol for American adherence which was to be substituted for the Senate reservations. President Hoover formally has accepted the protocol terms as adequately safeguarding American interests but has not yet submitted the Root protocol to the Senate. It provides as a last resort that the United States may withdraw from the court without prejudice if any court action is objectionable.

The objectives of all peace efforts, Hoover believes, must be reduction of armaments to the requirements of defense and cultivation of regular procedure for a pacific settlement of international controversies. American signature of the Kellogg pact, he said, obligated the United States to these objectives. Citing difficulties in applying the Kellogg pact to last year's Chinese - Russian controversy in Manchuria, Hoover said the need was demonstrated for "some method of mobilization of public opinion against the violation of the Kellogg pact."

Sketching the progress of armaments limitation from the Washington conference, Hoover said failure of the 1927 Geneva conference renewed competition in a more dangerous form than previously. Success of the London conference, he continued, reduced Anglo-Japanese-American naval standards by about 25 percent below those of the 1927 conference and 12 percent below current naval programs.

Lands Meet

"But most important of all," he said, "it has been able finally to turn the tide of constantly increasing naval arms and to end the poison of suspicion and ill will generated by constant rivalry in construction."

"Certanly the way to peace lies neither in rattling of the scabbard nor the abandonment of defense."

"Growth of the body of international law," the president said, "had created an opportunity for pacific settlement of many justiciable controversies through an international court which could make decision based on law and justice.

Solve Problem

"Such a court—the Wor'd Court" the president continued, "has been established at The Hague with the aid of American jurists. It has been accepted by 90 percent of the civilized people of the earth. It is established and no other court is practicable.

"Adherence to that court by the United States has been earnestly recommended by every one of our presidents and every one of the secretaries of state living since its inception."

Referring to problems regarding terms of American membership, Hoover said:

"I have no doubt they can be solved and that the United States will become a member of the court."

The Life Blood Of Our Nation

Very little business in America is transacted on a cash basis. Manufacturers, wholesale houses, professional men and women, merchants, receive credit from their bank and extend credit to their customers and clients.

Individuals engaged in private business such as building homes, improving property and the like always use bank credit for their obligations

Repeatedly individuals have made money beyond which they can rise in the form of cash. At such times the Mechanics Bank proves to be a welcome financial friend. Loans can be established on the basis of character, stock exchange collateral, unencumbered real estate or a financial statement.

In any of our three conveniently located offices there are one or more officers who are looking at your requirements from your point of view and are in a position to render a helpful intimate service.

GROUND BREAKING FOR SCHRADER STORE TODAY

NEW BUILDING WILL COST $55,000

Ground for the new Schrader furniture store, which is to be built at Twenty-fourth street and Macdonald avenue, will be broken today.

Work will start immediately upon the construction of the building.

Basil Spurr is the contractor and he has sub-let other contracts to local men.

It is expected the building will be finished by July 15 and be ready for a formal opening on either July 18 or 19.

In connection with the ground breaking, the Schrader store at Seventh street and Macdonald avenue is showing the latest in home furnishings, and style furniture.

The new building at Twenty-fourth street and Macdonald avenue will be one of the most modern of its kind. It will cost about $55,000.

A detailed description will be found in another column of this section of the RECORD-HERALD.

H. M. SCHRADER HEADS STORE

For a number of years Herbert M. Schrader has been serving as president of the Schrader furniture company, which was founded by his late father, L. H. Schrader.

Herbert Schrader has been identified with Richmond since his youth and is a product of the local schools.

Prior to entering the business with his father, he worked for a local clothing store.

Then he resigned this position, to work for his father at a small salary.

Through industry and thrift, young Schrader worked his way to the top until today he stands at head of the firm.

It has been Schraders' ambition to follow the ideals and the policies set by his father.

Schrader declared that on many occasions his father would take him on camping trips with a party of friends and would tell him of his dreams, of his plans and his ambitions.

"I have made it a point to follow the policies of my father," Schrader declared yesterday. "The new store was one of his favorite plans—and I am carrying it out for him."

Local Hospital Has Busy Week

M R. Mathieson of Livermore, whose foot was crushed when run over by a truck yesterday, was brought to Hospital Richmond for treatment.

Mrs. Marie Rose, 1028 Bissell avenue, underwent a major operation at the hospital yesterday.

A number of other minor operations were performed at the hospital during the past week, which were as follows:

Leon Bowen of 2613 Roosevelt avenue, minor operation.

Baby Garber, 1080 McLaughlin avenue, tonsils removed.

Lorain Pecric of Giant, tonsils removed.

Otto Baldwin of Albermarle avenue, tonsils removed.

D. Gamberg, 460 Dimm avenue, tonsils removed.

Three Injured In Auto Crash

Three Richmond men are today recovering from injuries sustained when a car in which they were riding Sunday skidded on the wet pavement and crashed into a telephone pole in San Pablo.

The men are Carl Richolfsky, 715 Seventeenth street, who suffered a broken right shoulder and severe lacerations on the head; Fred Hammond, 500 Pullman avenue, who suffered bruises and lacerations about the face and hands, and Don O'Loan, 334 Twentieth street, who sustained bruises and lacerations.

Richolfsky, the most seriously injured, was taken to Hospital Richmond in an unconscious condition, but was removed to his home yesterday afternoon.

According to police reports, Hammond was driving the car.

The building will be one of the most modern of its kind and will be built at a cost of more than $55,000. Schrader's store was founded in 1904 by the late L. H. Schrader.

President Of Schrader Co

The cast of "Station YYY" includes: Lois Ferguson, Evelyn Hebard, Alene Hucka, Helen Pirie, William McClosky, Halbert Glover, Warren Brown and LeVerne Cooper.

The members of the cast for "No Account Boy" are Laura LaLonde, Vivian Vaughn Jack Hosmer and Walter Thomas.

The cast of "Sparkin" includes Eva Hansen, Mildred Ferguson, Harold Westwood and Mrs. Statelmyer

Local Men In Martinez Crash

MARTINEZ, April 14.—UP—Two Richmond men, John L. Thomas, 839 Thirty-sixth street, and G. E. Searcy, 718 Twenty-first street, escaped injuries when their cars collided here today. Both machines were badly damaged.

NEW FURNITURE STORE TO BE MOST MODERN OF ITS KIND

The Twenty-third street district will soon have another imposing merchandise emporium when the L. H. Schrader company's building at Twenty-fourth street and Macdonald avenue is completed.

The new establishment will be one of the most modern furniture stores in the bay region. Many new features for store buildings are being incorporated in the design.

The building will cover four lots that were recently rezoned by the city council from residential to commercial zone.

Cost $55,000

The new building will be constructed at a cost of more than $55,000 according to Herbert N. Schrader, president of the local firm.

The building will be of the latest brick and steel construction, and will be of Spanish type.

More than $5200 worth of high grade steel will be incorporated in its construction, contractors stated yesterday.

Much Space

The building will have a ground space of 10,000 square feet and a floor space of 15,000 square feet. The addition of 5000 square feet was made possible through the construction of a mezzanine floor.

The store will so be constructed that in case of the expansion of business, it can be given a second story without interfering in any way with the general design and the lines of the building.

The building will cover about one sixth or more of a block. It will have frontage on Macdonald avenue of 50 feet and 150 feet frontage on Twenty-fourth street.

Plate Glass

More than $3000 worth of plate glass will be installed in the show windows, thus giving the exterior of the building a unique and charming appearance.

Skylights and other usual lighting methods will be used during the daytime, but at night a special system will be used.

The show windows will be lighted by flood lights, thus setting off the furniture on display to a good effect.

Display Methods

Every modern method of displaying and storing furniture will be used in the structure.

The new building is scheduled to be opened on July 18 or 19. It is believed that the actual work will be finished by July 15.

A formal opening is schedu'ed by Schrader as soon as it is finished.

Spurr At Work

Basil Spurr, local contractor, has charge of the construction work. Spurr has the general contract.

The brickwork on the building will be done by James Walker, of Richmond. The Tilden Lumber company of Richmond will furnish the lumber; E. H. Higgins of Richmond will furnish the building material; the Richmond Roofing company will install the roof and R. A. Washburn, Richmond plumber, will do the plumbing work.

With the exception of the steel and plate glass work it is said that every part of the building will be constructed by Richmond workers.

Many Employed

More than a score of men will be employed on the job during the construction period, Spurr stated last night.

The establishment of the new store is not a gamble—it is what is known as a 'sure thing," Schrader declared.

All signs have pointed toward Twenty-third street and Macdonald avenue as the future business center of the city of Richmond , he declared.

New Buildings

Not so long ago two automobile dealers, handling two well known brands of machines built new auto salesrooms and moved to Twenty-third street and Barrett avenue.

Hundreds of people pass the corner every day.

The center of population of Richmond has moved from around Tenth street and other streets to this vicinity. Today you will find large numbers of homes on the east side of the Southern Pacific tracks, with new homes being constructed year by year.

Check Kept

For more than two years the Schrader company has kept a close check on this neighborhood.

During that period of 24 months the company saw that this was the ideal location for its new store.

Business must follow the homes of the customers, Schrader said last night. This has been proven in every city of the United States in a nation wide check made by businessmen.

The customer of today demands that his store be convenient to him.

"We are merely following the demands of our customers when we open our store in the Twenty-third street district," Schrader declared last night.

WILLIAM QUINN ILL

William Quinn, of 442 Twenty-second street, and an employe of the local Standard Oil company, is seriously ill at his home.

Men Held On Liquor Charges

Charged with reckless driving and possession of liquor, Grant Snavely of Benicia and H. Chick of El Cerrito were arrested yesterday in El Cerrito and cited to appear before Police Judge J. F. Plank.

Snavely was arrested by Officer Howard Thulen while driving down San Pablo avenue. A quantity of wine was found in the car by the officer. Three sailors, in the machine with Snavely, were released. Snavely's bail was set at $150.

Elks To Enjoy Program Meeting

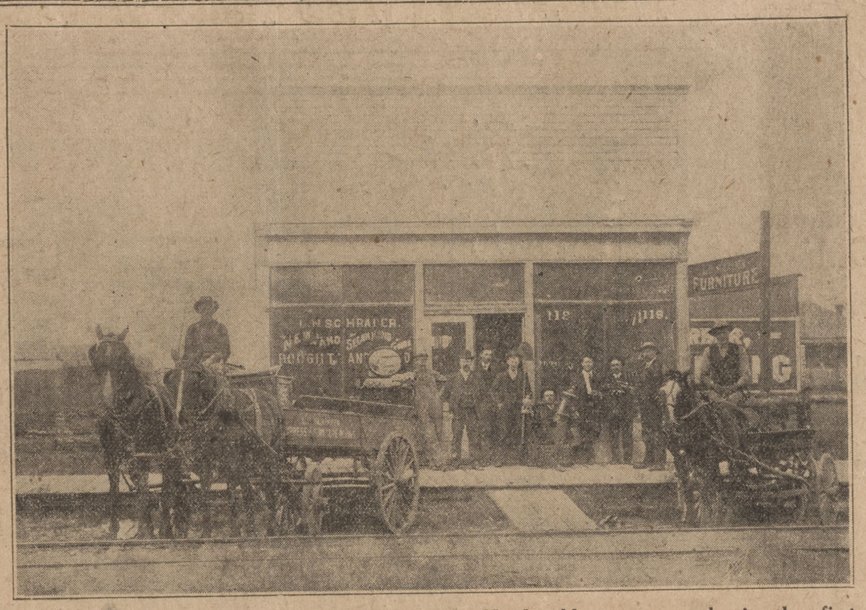
Second Schrader Store



SCHRADER'S STORE occupied this site at 119 Macdonald avenue, early in the first years of this century. L. H. Schrader, founder of the company which bears his name, is seen standing at the left, his arm upon a dresser. The group of men stand on the board sidewalks. In front of the building is the single street car track and the unpaved, unimproved street.

The trip is under the direction of Schuyler Albert and Reynold Carlson, director of the Richmond Y. M. C. A. More than 30 boys planned to make the trip.

Charles Baldi Rites Thursday

Baldi, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Baldi, died at the family home at Filbert and Dubcoe streets yesterday morning after a long illness. He is survived, in addition to his parents by a brother, Louie and two sisters, Eva and Lola.

SCHRADER CO. GROWS WITH RICHMOND

Since 1904 the L. H. Schrader Furniture company has been identified with the rapid growth of Richmond.

Today the management of the local firm sees ahead a prosperous year and continued success since it has decided to grow up with that rapidly growing section of Richmond—the Twenty-third street area.

Schraders is known througout the county, and perhaps the whole of the state as the result of a reputation for square dealing and courteous credit that it has built up in its 26 years of service to the citizens of this city.

Founded In 1904

The company was founded by the late W. H. Schrader and the business is now being carried on by his son, Herbert N. Schrader, president of the company.

W. H. Schrader first came to Richmond in 1903. At that time he established a foundry—the first in the city of Richmond.

This foundry was located near the present Santa Fe yards and the building still stands.

Enters Business

Then, in 1504, Schrader entered the furniture business in Richmond, a business that would bear his name and would bring him in future years the respect of the community and a reputation for fair dealing.

Schrader never had a partner. He was on his own from start until finish—fighting his own battles and winning them through his integrity and honesty.

Schrader's first store was located at what is now First street and Macdonald avenue. In those days First street was the outskirts of the city of Richmond. What is now the center of the town was then a hay field, marshy and uninviting.

First Year

It was in this store that L. H. Schrader established his name, a name that will be with Richmond forever.

In his first struggling years, Schrader fought to make his name stand as a symbol of honesty and faith with customers. How well he won his battle can be testified to by thousands of satisfied customers.

A few years after he had established his store, Schrader found that he must either move or make his store larger. His business had increased by leaps and bounds. His staff felt the need of a larger and better quarters.

Store Moves

Schrader moved—this time to 119 Macdonald avenue next door to what was then the office of the RECORD-HERALD.

In connection with this, it is well to notice that once again, after the passage of a number of years, the Schrader store will almost be next door neighbors to the RECORD-HERALD.

Business was good for Schrader—but he still had his battles to fight in this rapidly growing town. He felt that he must grow with the city; must be identified with it in such a manner that he could not be forgotten.

Business Grows

So, for a number of years he remained at 119 Macdonald avenue, serving his rapidly growing list of patrons.

Then, once again he felt the need of enlarging his store—or move. His business had grown so rapidly that he must provide new and larger quarters.

This time, Schrader moved to Third street and Macdonald avenue and there opened the L. A. Schrader Furniture store.

Many Patrons

The city was growing and so was business. Day by day the store made hundreds of new friends.

Today, according to Herbert Schrader of the thousands of patrons of the local establishment, there are a number of them who were patrons of his father at the Third street store.

What more could be said for a store that retains its list of satisfied customers throughout the long years? It is quite evident that everyone is satisfied with the manner in which he or she was treated.

City Grows

Richmond was growing fast—but not as fast as the store. L. H. Schrader was a man of vision.

Perhaps he imagined how Richmond would appear in years to come and he realized that need of growing with the city. He saw the business section of Richmond continue its rapid growth. He visualized the growth of this city and the rapid expansion of the business district.

And so it was in 1911 that he dreamed of a store that would be located even farther down Macdonald avenue. He pictured a building at what is now Seventh street

HOW CITIES GROW

Business Centers in Growing Cities Always on the Move

(By E. J. BURG)

A railroad station, a ship landing, a factory, or an important cross-roads junction may be the cause and beginning of the building of a new town or city.

Location and environment will determine how fast and how large such a city may become.

Geographical, as well as topographical conditions, will determine the location of the main retail business center.

Retail Business Centers always build away from the waterfront, railroads, factories, and industrial sections.

It always builds, grows, and develops towards the best residential sections, where the "buying power" of the people is most accessible.

Property in the best retail centers is worth approximately ten times as much more as the next best class of property.

The business center of San Francisco moved from Clay, Jackson, Montgomery and Sansome Streets (near the waterfront) to Market Street and out towards Van Ness Avenue.

In Oakland it moved from the Estuary, north, and east towards the hills and the better residential sections.

In Berkeley, it moved from West Berkeley and the industrial section, east towards the hills and the same rule holds good in nearly every city.

In Richmond the business center has continually been "on the move." First it was located at what is known as Point Richmond near the Standard Oil company and Santa Fe railroad yards. A little later it began to develop along Ohio Street in the industrial section below the Santa Fe R. R. embankment.

Then after that business and stores commenced to build along Macdonald Avenue from First to Fourth Streets; then to Sixth Street, (which held the center for quite awhile); then on East to Tenth, Macdonald and Nevin Avenues.

AND NOW 23rd STREET

At Twenty-third Street—east, north, and south—and a few blocks west—we find the ideal location for a permanent Retail Business Center. Here at 23rd and Macdonald, we have the geographical center of Richmond, and the topographical, as well as the physical conditions that cannot be surpassed by any city. Here is the most important transfer-point in Richmond, where more people will come and go than at any other section of Richmond.

It is here that the L. H. Schrader Furniture Company will have its elaborate and extensive permanent home, in their large new building now being erected for them by Burg Brothers at the corner of 24th Street and Macdonald Avenue.

The Ford Motor Company; the Chevrolet Motor Company have only lately moved their display and salesrooms from the old part of downtown Richmond into their new buildings at 23rd Street and Barrett Avenue.

All of the banking interests of Richmond have already become the owners of the 23rd Street-Macdonald Avenue frontages, and a number of other prominent business concerns are seeking locations in this same district.

In a recent copyrighted article, the Associated Editors, Inc. stated: "Always buy in front of progress—between the old business district and the best residence section. Do not be afraid to go a considerable distance out.

All of this brings us square up against, and over, the "Burg Properties," fronting on the three principal business streets of Richmond—Macdonald Avenue, San Pablo Avenue, and 23rd Street—also by a number of other 80 and 70 feet wide main streets, running directly through their properties.

There is no real estate development in California that offers such profitable investment opportunities as do the Burg Properties.

Secure a lot, or two in the Burg Bros. tracts; build a home, use it yourself, or rent it. It will not be many years before your property will be in demand for business purposes. You can then move the building further out in the residence districts, and either sell your lots at a great profit, or build a suitable business structure and become independently rich from your home lot.

This is the way all great real estate fortunes have been made in America.

Anyone in Richmond with ambition and vision can secure a future business center lot for a small amount of money; it would require a fortune to buy a relatively and similarly located lot in Oakland, San Francisco, or Los Angeles, and yet the lots in these cities sold for just as little money as one can buy them for here in Richmond today.

Be wise to your own interest—you can profit by going to Burg Bros. office at 332-23rd Street, the Pioneer Realtors of Richmond. They will be glad to show you all of Richmond, as well as to discuss with you the merits and reasons why you should invest in well-located business-center property now. There never was and never will be a more opportune time than now, to lay the cornerstone of your fortune and the welfare of your future, happiness and prosperity. and Macdonald avenue.

New Idea

His friends scoffed at the idea—declaring that it was too early for such a move; that he would surely go bankrupt if he were to move so far away from the business district.

They laughed at him for the same reason that many would laugh at any business man who would construct a huge store in a vacant lot miles from town.

For in those early days Seventh street and Macdonald avenue seemed miles away from the city proper. The street was called that only in name, for it was really just an open field.

Dream Realized

But Schrader's dream of a new store and a new building could not be denied. He had made up his mind. The store must be built and should be.

His friends continued to scoff at his idea. "No," they said, "it can't be done. You are a fool to try to."

But the store was built by Alfred and Robert Pillow and stands now at the corner of Seventh street and Macdonald avenue. It is known as the Pillow building.

New Building

The building is a three story structure. The first floor is occupied entirely by the Schrader store. The second story is devoted to business offices and the justice court while the third floor is used for lodge meetings.

Schrader moved into his new store building in the year 1912. Since that time the business has remained there. When the new store is opened at Twenty-fourth street and Macdonald avenue the Seventh street store will continue to operate as a branch of the Schrader company, it was stated yesterday.

The manager for the Seventh street store will be appointed within a short time by the president of the firm.

And as the years passed, the builder of the establishment saw that his dreams were coming true. His friends ceased to laugh at his "visions." They too saw that Richmond was expanding and that Schrader's move had been a wise one.

New Building

Business kept expanding, day by day, week by week, month by month, year by year.

Suddenly the firm felt that it must expand again, that its location was too small. Storage space was needed.

In 1918 Schrader prepared plans and a warehouse was built, at 322 Seventh street.

The new building was of the most modern type for its time and is two stories high.

Cost $19,000

The cost of the building is estimated at more than $19,000.

With the addition of the warehouse, the company was given an opportunity to expand and to arrange for more convenient handling of the furniture and for a greater chance to beautify the store.

The growth of the store has been rapid.

Son Enters Business

In 1919 Herbert Schrader resigned from his job with a local clothing store and entered the employment of his father at a small salary.

Schrader declared that his father sought to instill in him that spirit that had carried him on and upward to success.

Step by step Herbert Schrader worked his way up the ladder until today he stands at the head of the firm that bears his father's name.

In 1925 L. H. Schrader was called by death, marking the end of a long and successful career—of a life time spent in battling against odds.

Death Mourned

Richmond and the county mourned the death of Schrader. Thousands of his friends gathered at the funeral services to pay their last respects.

Soon after the death of his father, Herbert Schrader took the reins.

It is young Schrader's ideal to do what his father often dreamed would happen that the store would again be expanded. Schrader has and will continue the policies of his father.

New Store

In building the new store at Twenty-fourth street and Macdonald avenue, Schrader stated last night that he is merely carrying out the wishes and ambitions of his father.

Years ago L. H. Schrader dreamed of the day when a new store would be built in the Twenty-third street district.

Schrader saw years ago that this district would be in years to come the business district of the city of Richmond.

Courteous Credit

In commenting upon the success of the L. H. Schrader company, Herbert Schrader last night attributed its success to vision, faithfulness and above all "courteous credit."

For years the company has stressed the latter phase until it is the watchword of the firm.

Young Schrader declared last night that he has not known of one customer who was dissatisfied with his purchase or the treatment he was accorded at the local store.

High Ideals

Every employe of the establishment has been drilled until the idea is fixed firmly in his or her mind that the customer must be satisfied at all times.

"Assure the public of the best of goods, at the best price and the business is yours," Schrader said.

Policy Lauded

The local store has always maintained its policy of selling only the best of materials at the price that every citizen feels he can afford to pay.

Understanding the problems of the purchaser, the local establishment has always aided its patrons to the fullest extent, always lending aid at the time needed.

Satisfied customers mean permanent customers and tell their friends about it.

S. C. Cee is manager of the Seventh street store and he is assisted by a staff of 14 experienced workers, all of whom have been in the employment of the company for a number of years.

And with the building of the new store in the Twenty-third street district, Richmond will have not one, but two Schrader Furniture company's stores, to serve the needs of the community with "Courteous Credit."

It is both healthful and safe to use Natural Gas in furnaces and boilers now burning other fuels

Natural Gas costs less to use

Natural Gas is a safe and healthful fuel

Many leading physicians are heating their homes with gas fuel and are recommendng gas-fired heating equipment to other people because they know it gives safe and healthful heat. Especially is gas-fired heating safe and healthful when the fuel is burned in good appliances, correctly installed and properly connected to a chimney.

Easy to change present furnace

It is easy for you to substitute Natural Gas, a clean and care-free fuel, for your present fuel. The change-over is very inexpensive. We merely install the new "Conversion Burner" in the firebox. All products of combustion from the Natural Gas go outdoors through a chimney just as the smoke does from your present fire. The pure, warm air which heats your home does not come in contact with the burning gas. It passes around the hot outsides of the steel firebox.

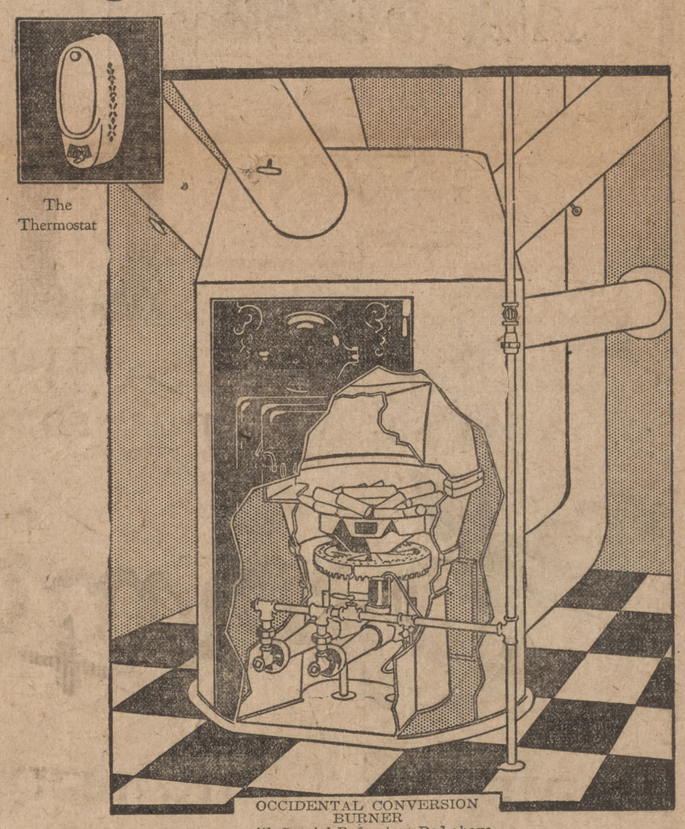
Heat at a finger's touch

You eliminate furnace drudgery by using clean Natural Gas.

You have instant heat any time, simply by moving a tiny lever on a Thermostat which is placed in your living room. By setting the lever at 70, your home stays at 70 degrees. You stop the "Conversion Burner" by moving this lever to the extreme left.

Many Satisfied Users

Hundreds of "Conversion Burners" were installed as a test in furnaces where Natural Gas was first turned on. A careful check was made of these burners and they were found to be operating entirely satisfactorily. The people who are using them are more than pleased with the clean, care-free heating. Especially are they pleased with the low operating cost.



The Thermostat

No matter whether a householder owns his own home or is simply renting, the "Conversion Burner" can still be used to give him warm, care-free heating. Whenever desired, a "Conversion Burner" can be removed from one furnace and re-installed in another furnace at a very reasonable cost.

Heat Needed 47 Days in June and July

Even though Summer is ahead of us, you'll need the "Conversion Burner."

Say Goodbye to this forever!

According to the "United States Weather Bureau," there were 342 days in San Francisco and 333 days in Oakland during the year of 1928 when the mean daily temperature fell below 65 degress. There were 47 days in San Francisco during June and July when heat was needed—due to foggy conditions around the Bay region.

We Inspect Your Heating Plant

Before the Pacific Gas and Electric Company installs the "Conversion Burner" in your furnace or boiler, we test and make a very careful inspection of your heating plant.

For a demonstration of how the "Conversion Burner" operates, call at our office, or telephone and a representative will give you full details.
